

Dear FCC Commissioners & Staff:

Write your letter here. I am writing to express my concern over a proposal to limit access to ADSL networks and restrict access to those networks by local Internet Service Providers (ISP's). My current ISP, Iglou Internet Services, has a long history of providing excellent service to it's customers. I have tried using services of larger providers and found the service to be less reliable and customer support to be severely lacking. Local ISP's also have a history of providing localized information and services, and of becoming vital parts of the community.

Please do not bow down to the wishes of a few large monopolistic corporations whose only interest is in adding to their already mountainous sources of revenue. Let us keep DSL through our local ISP's!

Sincerely,
Daniel K. Creasy
